INSIDE THIS PUBLICATION

ABOUT COMMUNITY CONNECTIONS

This publication has a brand new look. What was once called the UCC quarterly class schedule is now called UCC Community Connections.

For the past several years, the college has mailed the class schedule to roughly 50,000 homes in Douglas County as our way of informing the public what we offer. As technology has changed, so has our way of reaching the community. A few years ago we made the printed schedule that you receive in your mailbox available online. The schedule is the second most-read source on the UCC website, so we know how important it is for this information to be accessible and current.

In changing to this new publication, we've moved our college "credit class" schedule completely online. The students in our community will always have access to the most up-to-date credit class schedule additions and changes — something we weren't able to provide when the schedule was in print. The online schedule can be accessed 24/7 at umpqua.edu/class-schedule.

So what's here? You'll still find the schedule and information for Community and Workforce Training, Small Business Development Center, and Adult Basic Skills as well as information on Registration and a calendar of UCC's Arts and Athletics events. In addition, we'll share stories about students, outstanding alumni, and community partners who join us in academic excellence.

Check it out. We welcome your feedback.

SPOTLIGHT ON STUDENT SUCCESS

Building Better Futures One Student at a Time

Earlier this year, the federal government announced a controversial decision to transfer the Job Corps Civilian Conservation Center program from the U.S. Department of Forest Services to the U.S. Department of Labor. The transfer meant 9 of the country's 25 centers would permanently close. One of the centers to remain open directly impacts Umpqua Community College. Following a national outcry from representatives and the citizens they serve, the government reversed its decision in June. It meant the Wolf Creek Job Corps (WCJC) is here to stay. Job Corps is a no-cost education and career technical training program that helps people between the ages of 16 and 24 improve their quality of life through education. Locally, operations at the Wolf Creek site have been

The facility, which is located in rural Glide, is like a mini city. It has residence halls, a cafeteria, store, wellness center, gym, library, community garden, and more. Practically the only things you won't find here are cell phone and internet service.

Training at the Center includes welding, carpentry, cement masonry, construction craft labor, office administration, culinary arts, forestry conservation, and firefighting. Off-Center training includes maintenance and light repair, and certified nurse assistant.

"Workforce development is our number one mission," Center Director Gabe Wishart said. "Our goal is to turn disadvantaged youths into taxpayers. I tell students this is their once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to receive this kind of support."

"It seemed like a good program and I didn't have anything else going on when I decided to come here," Krista said. "I wanted to go to college after I graduated, but I didn't have the money to do it. That's one reason I'm here."

Krista turned to Job Corps when her home life changed. Faced with the prospect of no place to live, the Oakland High School graduate took a leap of faith. She moved to the Wolf Creek facility and started to learn her new trade.

"I knew I'd be able to get jobs by studying business," she said.

Now more than a year into her studies, Krista spends half her day working in the facility's administration building. She spends the other half in class. She has learned basic computing, online safety, typing and general office skills, business English, proper phone etiquette, and how to clerically support the Center's trades. With eight months left in the program, self-sufficiency is her next goal.

"I have learned so much here and I've gained many skills and new friends," she said. "The training I have received has made me feel more confident about my future."

Although Daniel Belcher did have a plan after he graduated from South Umpqua High School in 2012, he has traveled a similar path. Also facing homelessness outside of Job Corps, Daniel's goal was to become the 8th generation of his family to join the military. He planned to join the U.S. Navy and become a Seabee. He lost hope after battling with his weight.

"When it came time to enlist, I had a 48-inch waist," he said. "The maximum size is 39 inches."

fulfilled through a contract between the federal government and UCC for more than 50 years. Housing, food, basic toiletries, and on-the-job training are provided to students for free. Its capacity is 230 students.

For students like Krista Cornelius and Daniel Belcher, the Center is a life line. Both Douglas County residents would face homelessness and live life with no direction without the Center. Today, they are learning and earning their way.

SPOTLIGHT ON COMMUNITY SUCCESS

In a Sweet Spot, Thanks to a Local Resource

Cody and Mandi Dolan purchased an existing business, known as Umpqua Sweets & Treats, in 2016. The business had been operating since 2008 and was located on NE Stephens Street in Roseburg when they took over. Umpqua Sweets & Treats is a sweet shop, focusing on artisan truffles, fudge, chocolates, ice cream, and gift baskets. The Dolans produce local, handmade, artisan treats to serve Roseburg and the surrounding community. They have also expanded the business model into commercial accounts.

After operating the shop on NE Stephens for two years, the Dolans were ready for the next chapter in a new location. They decided to move to the heart of Roseburg's downtown historic district. The space they found has more usable area and a new commercial kitchen. The new location offers a warm and inviting feeling when you walk through the door. "We're very excited to transition into our new location downtown," Mandi said. "It's our opportunity to give the shop our own look and feel while also embracing the downtown Roseburg community and growing within the community as a whole."

The Dolans took on a large renovation project which had many challenges. In the end, it was well worth the difficulties when working with all the requirements needed to open their doors.

Changing locations is very risky in a retail established business, but they did it. Helping them to maintain cash flow during the renovations was their expansion into commercial accounts. Everyone was very excited with the storefront once they re-opened. While they'll continue their staple chocolates, they've added ice cream to the menu and plan to expand their treat offerings as they settle in. They hope the store becomes a destination for locals and visitors alike to stop in for delicious treats.

DISCOVERING UCC'S SMALL BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT CENTER

Mandi and Cody did not get to where they are overnight. They discovered UCC's Small Business Development Center (SBDC), which helped them find the resources they needed for success.

"Utilizing the SBDC for our business, even before our move, has been very beneficial," Mandi said. "The staff and advisers provide us with invaluable information. When we have a question, we can contact the SBDC and they will help us, or they would be able to direct us to someone who would have the answers. We utilized the SBDC for networking info, online presence questions, and other miscellaneous questions small business owners have. We have learned about social media and how to focus our ads to local audiences, make more engaging Facebook posts, and make our stores' Facebook page something people want to look at."

The Dolans are still building their website, but say the SBDC has helped guide them through that process as well. During the new shop's construction, the Dolans also received advice on how to navigate the permit process and who to speak to at the city and county governments regarding the buildout and how to install exterior signage.

"The no-cost advising we were provided, and the classes and workshops have proven to be invaluable."

"We would absolutely recommend the services the SBDC provides," Mandi said. "The no-cost advising we were provided, and the classes and workshops have proven to be invaluable. The wealth of knowledge the team provides and their patience in explaining details has helped our business beyond measure. It's a great local resource that helped us immensely when we first moved here and took over the business. The best part is that they continue to help us with different needs regarding all aspects of our business after being here a couple of years. It's a great local resource helping other locals fulfill their passions."

Instructor Highlight:JIM BROKENBOURGH

My interest in woodworking began when I bought my first piece of woodworking equipment back in 1976 when I also started renovation work on my home. After years of renovation on a number of my residences and commercial properties, I became a licensed general contractor. I also started making furniture for our family and friends and after years of studying woodworking and it's numerous techniques and with a growing clientele for my furniture, I opened my own custom woodworking business. I started teaching woodworking for our local community college years ago and for some time for private students. I've now been a professional woodworker for close to 32 years and a woodworking teacher for close to 14 years. I'm passionate about woodworking and furniture-making and I love sharing this passion with students so they can peruse their dreams too.

BEYOND BASIC WOODWORKING

This class utilizes a combination of hand tools and power tools in the construction of three projects, using techniques learned in the previous workshop and class, putting to use more advanced techniques. These new skills include mortise and tenon joints, introduction to finishing, grain matching, and the use of misc. hand planes, learned by the students while making their own beautiful project. Basic woodworking or other students who have enrolled in previously taught classes by the instructor are a prerequisite for this class. The instructor, Jim Brokenbough, is a 30+ year professional woodworker. $119

BUILDING BETTER FUTURES

Plan dashed, Daniel turned to minimum-wage jobs to get by — months turned into years. Tired of the dead-end job life he was living, he found out about the Job Corps while looking for a better job at the Roseburg employment office.

"It was a wise decision to come here," he said. "I'm definitely better off. The vocational training here is great."

A woodworker since the age of 12, Daniel loves to swing a hammer. He chose construction craft labor — a trade where it's done the most. He liked it so much, he decided to stay at Job Corps for another year and work on a second trade. He is getting close to finishing carpentry. Much smaller than when he started, he is also back on track to enlist in the military.

"This is definitely a place to build the future," he said "I have good mentors and role models here. They are putting me on a path for a better future."

Students who complete the program are tracked for one year. Where they work and how much they earn are important. Although many students are from out of the area, many end

"This is definitely a place to build the future. I have good mentors and role models here. They are putting me on a path for a better future."
